THE SPIRIT OF GETTYSBURG

UNSELFISH SERVICE—FIDELITY EVEN UNTO DEATH.

The Inspiring Theme of the Oration. Hon. J. Sloat Fassett on Memorial Day.

One more Memorial Day has been celebrated, resembling much those gone before. The crowd in town was very large, more than usual. The day was beautiful until after the services then nature added her tears to the pathetic occasion.

The parade opened in charge of Wm. A. McIlhenny as chief marshal and with Dr. Henry Stewart as aid, and led by chief of police Gordon and policeman O'Reilly, moved up Baltimore street at 1.30 p. m., in the following order: Citizens' Band, York Cadets-Incorporated, Order of Day and guests in carriage, Company B, Sons of Veterans under Lt. Walter H. Siegler, Sons of Veterans, P. O. B. of 1861, under command of Morris Stansbury, Spanish War Soldiers, Veterans of the G. A. R., At the graves the beautiful service of singing of flowers by the senior children and veterans took place while the band played a march, the services concluding with prayer and salute by the York Cadets and Sons of Veterans.

The exercises at the Rognum after music by band opened with prayer by Rev. J. B. Baker, Judge S. McC. Kope recited, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The Oration was then delivered by Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, New York, member of Congress from the 33rd New York District. At the close of a brilliant address, after music by band, the benediction was pronounced by Dr. T. C. Billheimer.

Address of Hon. J. Sloat Fassett.

Today is a day of remembrance all over this broad land. Thousands of Americans are gathering together to show their love and honor for their soldier dead. They are recalling the stirring events that led us to this day fifty years ago. There rises in retrospect a clearer view of the true meaning of the conflicts of those days than was possible for us to have at the moment they occurred. The color of passion and prejudice has faded; the bitterness of personal bias has sweetened; minds inflamed with the wrath which moved men to slaughter have recovered their normal calm and judgment. The storm was terrific. The tempest was sublime. The suffering was unspeakable. But these things passed away and now what was then seen but dimly, being obscured by the very violence of contest, stands revealed in all its beautiful proportions. A new generation may now join with the survivors of the older days in a saner and truer view of what the struggle meant. These days of remembrance are fruitful in lessons of love of country and of devotion to the common good. Nothing interests Americans more than the welfare of America, and nothing concerns us more intimately than the means whereby that welfare may be preserved. As we gather here to-day surrounded on every hand by the mute witnesses of a mighty contest waged here nearly half a century ago; as imagination endeavors to reconstruct the sublime spectacle of the three days' fight of Gettysburg, I seem to hear from out the rushing squadrons, the shouts and shrieks of men, the rattle of musketry and the thundering reverberations of the iron-throated guns, the words spoken to Moses from the burning bush: "Put off now thy shoes from off thy feet for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground," for this, too, is holy ground, consecrated to liberty and union, and hallowed by the martyrs for truth's sake who sleep beneath its sod.

We are here as loyal citizens of the United States to mourn and praise our dead. We are here to celebrate the spirit of liberty and those who fought for it; to honor the spirit of equality and those who died for it; to dedicate ourselves anew to the spirit of the Union and to those who saved it; to reverence the spirit of obedience to duty and those who heeded it. We are standing on one of the mountain tops of history and have come to get a clearer view of what has gone before, and to learn how best to chart our journey for the future. Annually we return here to strew these graves with flowers, and to consider the deeds done here in the flesh, and to ponder in our hearts the messages voiced from this field of ten thousand memories. Here we yield ourselves to reminiscence of events long passed and contemplate with satisfaction this monumental field, conscious that a monument more enduring than those which meet the eye, not built with hands, has been erected, eternal in the heaven of human gratitude and love.

We are the heirs of all that was here wrought. We have come by the inexorable law of succession, to a mighty heritage. As we have received so also must we in our turn bestow. The trust is vast and sacred. Our responsibilities are co-extensive with the trust. To-day we may well search our hearts and search the intervening years and contemplate the future that confronts us, and ask ourselves if we have kept the faith.

The battle of Gettysburg was one of the great battlefields of history, notable for the number of men engaged, the long list of the dead and wounded, the illustrious names of the leaders on both sides, the distinguished bravery of the combatants, and above all, for the mighty issues which were here involved: the integrity of a nation and the emancipation of a race. Here the tide of rebellion reached its highest flood. Here was recorded the decisive verdict of the God of Battles, establishing manhood as the basis and liberty as the universal condition of citizenship. Here the blood of brethren in gray mingled with the blood of brethren in blue that the sins of the fathers might be expiated, and the welfare and unity of the children be guaranteed and consecrated. Here we were taught once more the fatal certainty of the truth of the words of the Holy Writ: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Here was sealed in blood and tears the compact of an indissoluble union; here throbbled the heart of the nation in the agonies of war, and here throbs the heart of a nation in the grateful remembrance of those who here are buried the hostages by which we are pledged in the words of the immortal Lincoln to the high resolve that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

In the long years which preceded the war the resources of debate and legislation, compromise had been exhausted. The irreconcilable forces of union and disunion, of liberty and slavery could not be compromised; they could not live together side by side. One or the other must surrender. When this truth finally made itself manifest, when all other resources had failed there came at last the inevitable call to arms, the age-long court of last resort, a cruel and a savage court. Some day, pray God, we shall learn a better way. Some day the principles of justice and of truth will be established in reason and judgment in a spirit of sanity and love, and there is great comfort in the thought that the people of the United States will never again find it necessary to adjust their own differences by the sword. When the fatal gun was fired at Sumpter the response was quick and fierce. As God gave each side to see the light so each side followed the call, and these conflicting ideas of union and disunion, freedom and slavery in the forms of men in the bodies of our fathers and our family kin rushed into the maelstrom of a devastating war. From North and South and West came the fighting multitudes. They came from shop and field, from factory and counting house, from all callings and all professions, men of one blood, men of one God, men of one country, men of one speech, leaving behind them the comforts and securities of home, led by no hope of personal advantage, moved by no expectation of selfish reward, but inspired, each man, by a belief in the righteousness of his own cause, determined to do and die, if need be, that the truth as he understood it might be established.

And that contest, as so often in the history of wars, those ideas which made for the widening of human opportunity, which made for the establishment of human equality and freedom, which made for an equal chance for each man to expand manward and Godward, each one after his own inherent powers or latent capacity, were triumphant over the conquered forces of privilege and disunion. The history of man has been but the history of conflicting ideas and ideals struggling against each other in the forms of men, throwing man against man, tribe against tribe, nation against nation, and race against race, building up new philosophies, tearing down old forms, creating new religions, destroying old ones, wearing away old civilizations and building up new ones, and in the process winnowing out higher ideals, truer ideas; making for richer opportunities for individual men. In the long view right forever triumphant; in the short view wrong forever on the throne, but never at any time any advance forward or upward save at the expenditure of enormous exertion and sacrifice and suffering and death.

There has never been any primrose path to victory; there has never been any painless conquest of great advance of universal benefit. The precious plants of liberty have been watered by the tears and nourished by the blood of countless generations. No great freedom has ever been established by spontaneous growth, nor has it ever been self-sustaining or self-protecting. Liberties are rare plants demanding eternal vigilance and continuous defense. No great expansion of human opportunity has ever come to pass by accident. Sometime, somehow, somewhere, some man has paid the price. This is the inexorable and unchanging law. The advance of truth across the world has been marked by little circles of blackened earth where yesterday the martyr stood.

Mankind has been consecrated from the beginning to emancipation, to liberty, to equal opportunity, to a chance for growth and development. There has always glowed in his bosom an inextinguishable spark of divine fire which would not be denied. This great struggle here at Gettysburg was but one of a thousand similar struggles to the same end, but Gettysburg was decisive. The backbone of the rebellion was broken—here across these ridges and in these fields, and here it was decided forever that the union though a compact was indestructible; that the country was a nation and not a confederacy, that men were men and not chattels. Gettysburg converted the government from a great experiment to a great certainty. As America had been settled through the need and agitation of men for equal opportunity for individual expression, by the urgency in men for liberty to grow, by the necessity for men that political conditions should recognize more nearly to the urgencies of man's mind and spiritual nature; so Gettysburg was fought in response to the same urgencies appearing in a different form.

It was necessary to make the compact of individual freedoms complete. Before Gettysburg man had conquered for himself many of the great freedoms which we proudly claim as American institutions, not that they are not found elsewhere, but because nowhere else in all the world are they so complete. Before Gettysburg was fought our citizens had enjoyed freedom of education, freedom of expression by thought and word and pen, and press, freedom to worship God, and after the dictates of his own conscience. And here at Gettysburg the circle was made complete. Once and for all labor was emancipated from the shame of slavery, and for the first time was free in head and heart and hand, and in all this land forever and forever more the only stripes shall be the stripes upon our flag.

The men whose deeds we commemorate here to-day fought unselfishly, they fought for no increase in wealth or extension of dominion, for no personal advantage or individual gain, but for their country and their Constitution. They fought not so much for their rights as for their duties, not so much for themselves as for others. Their cause was the increasing number of all the ages that have gone before, and the imperative need of all the generations that were yet to come. Their consecration to their cause led them to sacrifice, to battle, and to death. Not every great cause leads them to battle and to death. Only a few are called upon to die for their country, but all of us are called upon to live for our country. These men taught us how to live as well as how to die. Heroism is not confined to the tented field. Courage is not required exclusively for war and death. To die nobly is heroic. To live nobly is magnificent. The one demands instant courage, the other unflinching devotion.

The welfare of our country depends upon the courage and the spirit in which we meet and discharge the recurring, homely duties of every day life. The triumph of right over wrong, of liberty over slavery, was not completed by the victorious outcome of the rebellion. The war between the forces of darkness is a continuous and never-ending war. Every day in its own Gettysburg, and every man a soldier. Every day opposing forces meet on the great battlefields of life. Every day in every human enterprise a contest must be fought. The armies of peace never can be laid aside. The past has pledged us to the future. That which our fathers began we must continue. Finished it never will be until man's destiny is complete.

Each new freedom develops new foes, each new liberty is threatened by some new license. In an ever-growing country with ever-changing conditions there is a continuing field for the display of the loftiest virtues and the highest gifts. The obligations of citizenship may change in kind but never change in quality. To-day may require the soldier, tomorrow may require the priest, the next day the statesman, but every day requires courage, resolution, unselfishness and a willingness justly to serve the common good. Whether we are willing or unwilling each must lend a hand, each must either help or hinder, we cannot be eliminated. The responsibility is not to be denied, the obligation is not to be evaded. As civic privileges are common to all, so civic duties are common to all. They are not and ought not to be transferable. No man has any right to share the peace and security of organized society unless he devotes his share of effort toward securing that peace and maintaining that security. Civic duties are not assignable and more than are civic privileges. The deadliest foes of the permanence of our institutions are civic indifference and civic apathy, the one is a treason and the other is a crime. Universal individual interest in and aggressive participation in public affairs is the price we must pay for present welfare and future prosperity. It is suicidal folly to look to some exceptional man, no matter how highly gifted he may be, to see to it that the republic suffers no harm. That way lies dictatorship. Just in proportion as each citizen meets this duty of interest in public affairs will the stability of our institutions be assured. It has cost the effort of ages to secure the right to each citizen for an equal voice at the ballot box. This right must be exercised that it may produce its finest fruits. There are more good men than bad men in every community, but inert men no matter how lofty their private virtues are of no public utility. Common honesty demands a common exertion for the common good. No conception of public duty is complete which either belittles or ignores this obligation. The highest civic duty every American citizen is to be a practical American politician participating in all public affairs with an unwavering devotion to the principles of a square deal and fair play. Each public duty shirked adds just so much to the burden of the faithful. The needs and the benefits of good government are universal. We may have just as good government as we will to have. We must move forward like an army with banners, each man in his own place faithful to his own duties in his own way according to his strength.

This great Government of ours of which we are all so proud is in many ways the most complicated in its forms and organizations. It is not a pure democracy, and could not endure long as such, and tendencies in that direction should be viewed with a most hostile eye. It is a republic in the representative form wherein each man has an equal right with every other man to an equal voice in governmental affairs. It was inevitable that our institutions should take this particular political form because it affords the best chance for individual growth, and requires the highest qualities of individual citizenship, and under it human liberty would find itself the most upon all alike. The expressed will of the majority properly ascertained in the various civic divisions is the supreme law of the land and the foundation of all authority. It is established by the experience of the centuries that the opinion of all of the people is a stronger foundation for justice than the opinion of some of the people. Here the aggregate good of all is determined by the aggregate will of all, and in the exercise and expression of that will each man has his equal chance. Equal power implies equal responsibilities, and equal responsibilities necessitate equal preparation. To each American comes with an urgency unknown elsewhere in the world the need of the cultivation of the highest conception of civic duty and patriotism. We cannot forever be receiving assistance and protection and never give back any contribution of our own. No man has any right to demand any better government than he himself is willing to contribute to effect. It is this unescapable personal responsibility which must be faced and accepted by every American citizen. Just so far as we are willing to pay this price just that near shall we come to being a nation rejoicing in equal opportunity to all founded in choice and established in justice.

We commemorate here to-day not alone the death of the men who fell here for liberty; other men have died bravely; other battles were as bravely won. We extol not simply the virtues and the results of the bravery of the heroic dead, but consciously associate them with the grandeur and nobility of the cause. We celebrate here to-day the spirit of Gettysburg, the spirit of unselfish service, the spirit of fidelity even unto death. We celebrate here devotion to the cause of humanity, determination which against all odds, setting self aside, sacrifices self that others may live. The spirit of Gettysburg is the spirit of the square deal and fair play, the spirit which resolves to do no wrong and to suffer none, the spirit which puts self last and duty first. This is the lesson spoken from these voiceless graves. We are here reminded that no man lives to himself alone, but each for all. Some must suffer that others may enjoy. Some must sacrifice that others may reap. The man who lives unto himself alone has only one soul's welfare for his incentive, the man who lives to serve others has for his beneficiaries all mankind. The lesson of Gettysburg in a word is service, the noblest word in the English language describing the noblest thing in human life, breathing the humblest and yet the loftiest spirit; entering into all good works and true living; inspiring all the lives of all the greatest men and women of all times; adorning the crowns of monarchs and lifting the humblest above kings. It sweetens the toil of the laborer and justifies the accumulations of the wealthy. It constitutes the sole foundation of enduring greatness, for greatness implies service, and service implies unselfishness. It is all wrong to think that greatness comes from making the world serve us. All genuine greatness is based upon service to the world. The quality of greatness is derived from the quality of the services rendered. This is the master secret of the ages. It is the essence of the golden rule. It is the law and the prophets. Already there are evidences that the world is coming under the dominion of this law. We are certainly coming into a new age. Whether consciously or unconsciously, directly or indirectly, we shall acknowledge more and more the binding force and experience the marvelous efficiency of this law of service. No longer should the youth of America be taught to develop all their capacities in order to be great, or to be rich or to succeed. No longer should the keynote of the appeal to the coming generations be selfishness. It is right that youth should develop every manly grace. It is right that youth should cultivate every intellectual capacity. It is right that youth should seek to grow to its uttermost, but the inspiring incentive should be not expectation of selfish rewards, but the hope of the largest capacity for rendering service to others. The solution of all great political and social national problems depends upon national character, and national character is but the aggregate of personal character. Where the keynote of individual inspiration is selfishness, the national character will be unselfish. Where the individual keynote is altruism, the national character will be pitched to the harmony of the music that thrilled above Bethlehem, the sweet music of "Peace on earth, good will to men." So the solution of all great problems in the last analysis is to be found in the bosom of the individual. The choicest asset of a nation is the average character of its citizens. Spencer has well said there has never yet been found any political alchemy whereby we can get golden results from leaden instincts.

There has been too much talk of rights and too little thought of duty. From the cradle to the grave we have shouted for our rights, but as to our duties we have talked in whispers. There is no right without a corresponding duty. There is no privilege without a corresponding obligation. They are correlative, they go hand in hand, they are the two sides of the same shield. Appreciation of and submission to the rights of others is not to be considered a surrender of individual rule. Society must move to accomplish great results as a unit, and this can only be accomplished through the co-ordination of individual units. The higher the quality of the individual, the more effective the co-ordination. The thinking unit in civil life, as the thinking bayonet in military life, obtains the best results by intelligent submission to the expressed will of a properly constituted majority for a common purpose.

This is a marvelous age in which we live. Society is quivering with expanding life, problems of gravest moment as to the proper creation and distribution of wealth, as to the proper relations between capital and labor, between employer and employee, between public and private corporations and civil communities, as to the proper care of the socially inefficient, confront us at every turn. The world is in a ferment, mighty armaments are being constructed. Vast armies are being gathered together, nations are shivering with apprehension of mighty upheavals, external and internal. There are prophecies of weird wonders in the political and industrial skies, and there are arising in all lands strange prophets shouting to here is the solution, and lo there is the solution, and terrifying us with lurid forecasts of swift destruction and universal disaster. A distinguished clergyman the other day in a sermon before a large and cultivated audience asserted that the life of our nation was in peril through money madness, and that vice threatened our destruction, and he painted an alarming picture of the imminence of the dissolution of our institutions, but money madness is only one form of danger and this has always existed, but never so little dangerous as now. Money madness, power madness, ambition madness and luxury madness and many other forms of excessive zeal have always threatened society, but somehow the world has moved onward and society in general has moved upward. It is a false and superficial view that sees only the intense activity of modern forms of evil and is blind to the unprecedented activity and aggressiveness of the forms of good. Let us not be alarmed. Let us not be discouraged. Let us turn a deaf ear to all false prophets preaching new doctrines. We need no new moral codes. We need only old-fashioned morals for new-fashioned times. We need only the lessons taught here at Gettysburg: fidelity to duty, a touch from the hand of unselfish love, a voice from the graves of the nameless dead. Denunciation of the progress of others is a waste of time. Unreceptive criticism is a loss of strength.

Great things against great obstacles have been accomplished in this land; greater things remain and greater obstacles will be removed. Man's destiny is to reach out forever with increasing insistence toward the ever-approaching, ever-receding perfection of human opportunity. There will be forever an ideal beyond the actual. This is the condition and the sign of growth. There must and should be a noble discontent; there must and should be enlightened action. Perfection is a dream, but the dream prophecies the fact. The golden age is not behind us, it is before us. This is a better world to live in to-day than it was when Gettysburg was fought, and it will continue to improve, never doubt it. To think otherwise is to regard all history as a fable and God as a myth. The world's life read day by day in the columns of the daily press seems to justify the belief that hysteria, unrest, unreason, unfaith, immorality and crime are in the ascendant, but the world's life read by decades and centuries so that we can get a truer perspective of the real trend of the mountain chains of human achievement irradiates hope and is beautiful with promise. Troubles there are, and troubles there always will be. Difficulties there are and grave dangers and there always will be, but faced with calm self-poise and the spirit of fair play, met with unselfish courage and a devotion to the common good they will be smoothed out and disappear. Each heeded noble impulse helps us forward, each temptation resisted, each injustice repressed, each wrong righted, each equity established, helps us on the way. We are soldiers battling for the truth's sake. Sometimes we have our Shiloh and Bull Run, but more frequently our Gettysburg and Appomattox. Sometimes the sweat and dust and noise of conflict blind and deafen us and the darkness of night overtakes us, sometimes we feel faint and discouraged, and sometimes fall out by the wayside and are reported absent or not accounted for; sometimes we desert and betray, but the great army of America is brave and strong and true, sound of body, clear of sense and sweet of heart, and answers promptly and victoriously to the command of conscience for fair play and equal opportunity.

Never was charity kinder, never was conscience more dominant, never was justice surer, never was appreciation of truth and good morals and right living higher, never were loftier standards required of men in all positions of private business of public trust, never was opportunity for all men freer, nor more equal than to-day, here now in this country, governed by the sons of those men who here at Gettysburg were faithful unto death. They purchased free government by their deaths, we secure good government by our lives. They won their victories by the sword, we must win our victories by the word. The Good work has gone forward, the message from these graves has been heeded year by year.

Each new victory entails new opportunities and new obligations. High citizenship demands a higher consecration. The methods, the needs, the aims of the twentieth century are not to be realized by stagnant content with nineteenth century conditions. The gathering momentum of the forces of to-day is not to be controlled by the slender restraints of yesterday. Twentieth century conditions require twentieth century men with twentieth century preparation.

"New occasions teach new duties, Time makes ancient good uncouth; He must upward still and onward, Who would keep abreast with truth."

New methods are not necessarily better because they are new. Old methods are not necessarily worse because they are old. Every change is not reform. Every departure is not into better ways. Every new proposal should be put to the trial of the test tube and the hammer and judged by the results in the light of the immutable laws of equity and justice.

We must believe with Tennyson: "That through the ages one enduring purpose runs, And the thoughts of men are widened In the process of the suns."

We are too near some events to measure their deeper significance, and no doubt the future will correct many false impressions we now have of ourselves, our country and our work, but of this we may be sure, that when in their turn our children and their children in some distant time stand as we are standing by the graves of those who are making the America of to-day, they will say of us as we are saying of these: "They were faithful to their trust. They fought a good fight. They kept the faith."

"They added to liberty." "They increased opportunity." "They advanced justice." "They served mankind."

Humanity passes, but the humanitarian remains a heritage of increasing value from age to age. Each generation adds its contribution and thus we are forever at the crest of the wave of the fulness of human achievements. To these sleeping heroes we are much indebted. To them our children also shall be much indebted if we are faithful to our trust. There need be no fear of the mighty engines of modern life if the same spirit which invented them and applied them is devoted to their regulation and control. There need be no fear for the life of our republic for our institutions will endure so long as love of justice endures as a stronger force than indifference to justice; so long as a passion for freedom and equality of opportunity shall be stronger than greed for privilege and selfish advantage. So long as each citizen for himself with firm resolve can say in the words of that noble hymn:

"I live to greet that season By gifted men foretold, When man shall live by reason, And not alone by gold. When man to man united, And every wrong thing righted, This whole world shall be lighted. As Eden was of old."

I live for those who love me, For those who know me true; For the Heaven that shines above me, And awaits my coming, too. For every cause that lacks assistance, For every wrong that needs resistance, For the future in the distance, And the good that I can do."

And as we bid these heroes again our annual hail and farewell, we renew with the great President the high resolve that through no fault of ours shall those who died here have died in vain.

DUTIES OF SUPERVISORS

JOS. W. HUNTER, HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER, REVIEWS SUBJECT

Helpful Suggestions To Maintain Good Roads—Side Ditches—Road Drag—No Excuse for the Breaker.

The power and authority of supervisors is conferred by the Act of June 13, 1836, and the method of administration by the Act of April 12, 1905, P. L. 1009. Under the Act of 1836 supervisors are bound to keep the roads and bridges of the township in good repair. They should have sufficient ditches dug upon both sides of the road where necessary to carry off the water; they should remove all loose stones from the road; they should drain, elevate and stone low places; they should cut ditches from the roads into the fields to carry off the water, and should any person or persons fill up these ditches they should be taken before a Justice and fined. If the supervisors permit ditches to be filled up whereby the water is thrown upon the road the supervisors may be indicted. Supervisors have the right to go upon adjoining property for stone, sand and gravel; the value to be fixed by referees, if the supervisors and owner of property cannot agree upon the price. If supervisors neglect to repair the roads or to keep them open the width the court decrees they shall be open they are liable to indictment. It is not necessary to give supervisors notice to repair before binding them over to court. The condition of the road is notice and they can be convicted, although since the binding over they may have repaired the road. Public roads or highways laid out, approved, or entered on record, shall be as soon as practicable effectually opened and constantly kept in repair; and all public roads shall at all seasons be kept clean of all impediments to easy and convenient passing and travelling, at the expense of the respective townships.

"Supervisors cannot change the location of the road as confirmed by the court, even with the assent of the owner of the land." "When once opened a new supervisor cannot change it on the ground that it was opened in a wrong place." Supervisors shall cause posts to be erected at the intersections of all public roads within their respective townships, with boards firmly fixed thereon, and index-hands pointing to the direction of such roads; on these boards shall be inscribed in large and legible characters the name of town, village or place to which such roads may lead and the distance there-to computed in miles. If any supervisors shall, after ten days' personal notice, neglect or refuse to put up, or keep in complete repair, index-boards as aforesaid, such supervisors shall, for every such offense, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding ten dollars. If any person wilfully destroy, deface, or injure any guide post or index board erected at or near any public road, or any notice put up at any public bridge as aforesaid, such person shall for every such offense forfeit and pay a sum of not less than five or more than fifteen dollars.

If any person shall stop, fill up, or injure any drain or ditch, made by any supervisor for the purpose of draining the water from any public road or highway, or shall divert or change the course thereof, without the authority of the supervisors for the time being, such person shall for every offense forfeit and pay a sum not less than four nor more than twenty dollars.

These provisions of the act of 1836 are still in force. There are many townships in the State where the supervisors were administering the affairs of the township under special laws, there being no uniform system in the State.

The Act of April 12, 1905, P. L. 142, supplemented by the Act of May 12, 1909, P. L. 752, is a law general in its terms, and is intended to provide a uniform method of electing road supervisors in townships of the second class and also provides a uniform system of administration of township affairs throughout the Commonwealth and is decidedly a step forward in the movement of securing better roads for the public.

Under the provisions of this Act there is a board of three supervisors in each township, one member of the board being elected each year for a term of three years.

Section 2 of said Act provides that "The supervisors of each township shall meet, at the place where the auditors of the respective townships meet to perform their official duties, on the first Monday in March; and after being duly sworn or affirmed, according to law, to discharge their duties with fidelity, — a copy of the oath to be filed with the township auditors, — shall organize as a board by electing one of their number as chairman, etc." Properly qualifying and filing a copy of the oath with the township auditors is a very important matter and the requirements should be strictly complied with; a failure to do so may cause supervisors trouble and be an expensive matter to the township. The Act, section 2, also provides "That the road tax shall hereafter be collected in cash, and no such tax shall be payable in labor or worked out; but provided further, That any township may, by a majority vote of the electors thereof, at the February municipal election, after thirty, (30) days prior notice thereof, adopt the system of payment on road taxes by work on the public roads. Such election shall be authorized by the court of quarter sessions, upon a petition of at least twenty-five taxpayers of said township; any township, which shall have collected its road taxes in cash, shall annually receive from the State fifty per centum of the amount of road taxes collected in said township, as shown by a sworn statement of the board of township supervisors furnished to the State Highway Commissioners on or before the first day of April in each year; Provided, That no township shall receive in any one year, more than twenty dollars for each mile of township road in said township." In connection with this paragraph it is important to observe the date of filing the annual report April first. Unless this report and the certification required by Section 2 of the same Act are filed with the State Highway Department on or before the date set, April 1st, the township will be debarred from participating in the distribution of any appropriation made to carry out the provisions of this Act. The following essentials must be complied with in order that a township may be entitled to receive the benefits of the said Act of April 12, 1905, as supplemented or amended by the Act of May 13, 1909.

1st.—The annual report and certification of collection of tax in cash must be filed on or before April 1st in each year.

2nd.—A roadbed not less than 14 feet in width must be maintained, except under special conditions and in certain locations.

3rd.—A proper system of drainage must be adopted and maintained and ditches kept open.

4th.—The surface of the roads must be kept in good shape, well rounded and free from loose stone.

5th.—Roadbanks must be kept trimmed and free from brush, weeds and long grass.

6th.—Wooden drains, culverts and bridges must be abolished as soon as possible and replaced with permanent structures.

The question of drainage is the most important single feature in road maintenance. A highway which is inadequately or improperly drained can never be kept in good condition, no matter how diligent and painstaking the effort may be. There is no other point so essential in the care of the public roads, and which, if properly attended to, will so greatly relieve the township of expense.

To this end the side-ditches must be opened to a depth of 12 to 24 inches below the level of the road surface. The depth of the ditch must in any case be dependent upon the quantity of water to be carried therein at times of greatest flow. The bottom and sides of ditches should be smooth and free from depressions or pockets which might interfere with the flow of water. Ditches adjoining clay roads should be larger than those adjoining sandy roads. Especial attention

THE ONLY WAY.

Many Gettysburg Citizens Have Discovered It.

Just what to do when the kidneys are affected, is a question that concerns both young and old. Weak kidneys neglected in childhood lead to life-long suffering. People of advanced years, with less vitality, suffer doubly. In youth or age, languor, back-ache, urinary irregularity, dizziness and nervousness make life a burden.

There is one remedy that acts directly on the kidneys and cures these troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills owe their world-wide fame to the fact that they cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Follow the example of this Gettysburg citizen and you will be convinced that this is so.

Mrs. Frank Tawney, 28 Breckinridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with excellent results. I publicly endorsed them two years ago and hold just as high an opinion of them at this time. A member of my family was afflicted with kidney trouble for years and probably inherited it. This person suffered a great deal from pains in his back and sides and was unable to control the kidney secretions. A cold always aggravated the complaint. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at the Peoples Drug Store and their use effected a complete cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Ostermoor $15.
Built - Not Stuffed

Yes, this is the Ostermoor Mattress you have heard of and seen advertised so many years. The one that's built of eight interlacing Ostermoor sheets, which after being hand-laid and sewed within the tick is ready for you to sleep on for the rest of your life and then bequeath to your heirs. There is one record of three generations sleeping on the same Ostermoor. It has been in satisfactory use for fifty-two years and that is a pretty good record for durability—isn't it?

Come in and let us show you the Ostermoor and explain why it is proof against dust, moisture, and vermin and never needs any renovation but a sun bath. Our stock will enable you to examine and test before you buy.

RECORD YOUR DEEDS

By an Act of Assembly of 1893, "All Deeds and Conveyances shall be recorded within ninety days after their execution, or shall be adjudged fraudulent and void against subsequent purchasers."

Also the Act of Assembly of 1909, prescribes a short form of Deeds, and "again requires the recording to make them valid."

It is also a great protection against loss or deed being burned by having them recorded, and costs but a small sum, compared to getting a new deed.

Bring or send them into the Recorder's office, and in a few days they will be returned to you.

Remember the Primary

Next Saturday, June 4th, is the Spring Primary for nomination of tickets by all the parties. Let Democracy be represented in the making of the Democratic ticket by a large vote. Get out to the polls, get your neighbors and friends out. A ticket nominated by a big vote is bound to be a satisfactory one as expressive of the will of the majority. The polls open at two o'clock and close at 8 p. m. Be sure to go and vote your sentiment in the selection of a ticket.

Word to Subscribers.

The COMPILER is working for a paid up subscription list by July 1, 1910 in order to comply with the requirements of the Post Office Department, so that by said date there shall be no subscribers in arrears over 12 months. Statements have been mailed to subscribers so in arrears and we ask their help to meet the requirements, by answering our letters promptly.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

A. R. Brodbeck,

Hanover, Pa.

Your vote and influence respectfully solicited for the nomination of Representative to Congress of the 20th Congressional District of Pennsylvania, York and Adams Counties at the Primary election on June 4th, 1910.

VOTE FOR

I. B. KUHN for the Legislature

All Democrats concede McSherrystown is entitled to Recognition

All Democrats are united for Mr. Kuhn in his own locality

For 25 years candidates from McSherrystown have stepped aside for Democrats from the other towns and townships, and now our fellow Democrats from all over the County will unite and vote to do justice to a loyal and waiting people.

Mr. Kuhn has had experience in matters of Legislation.

During the sessions of 1901—1903 and 1905 he was sent to the Capitol as a private citizen to promote Legislation vitally effecting the interests of more than one thousand of the residents of our county and in each instance secured the passage of the much desired Legislation. If he was able to do this as a private citizen how much more could we expect from him if properly delegated with a voice and vote.

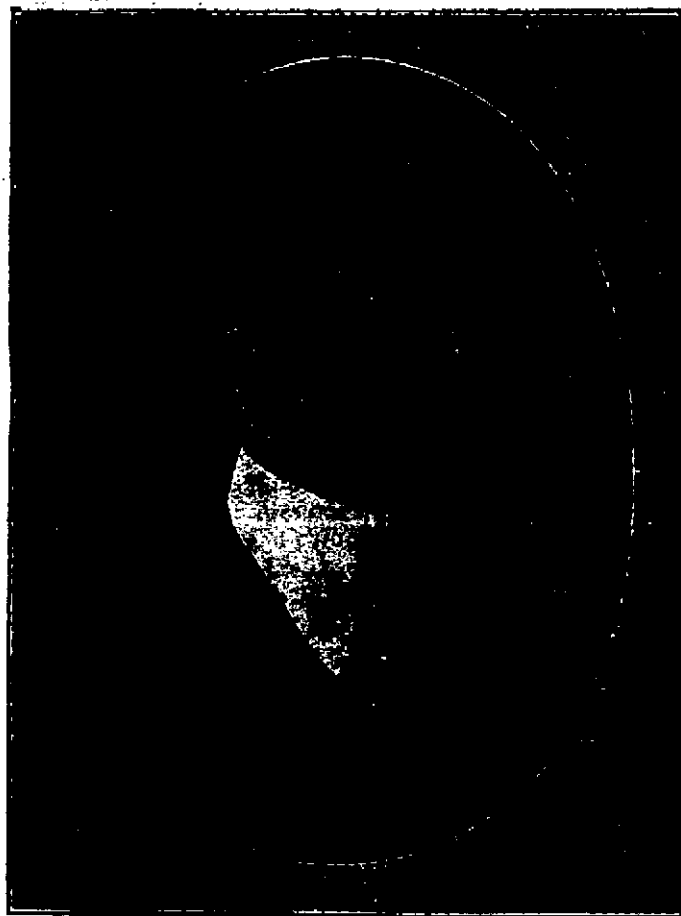

All Democrats recognize his splendid work for Democratic principles and policies and for the party—National, State and County.

Where is there another Democrat who would have devoted 6 weeks entirely at their own time and expense traveling all over the county working in the interest of the Democratic party, like Mr. Kuhn did in the 1908 campaign.

Fellow Democrats, go to the Polls this SATURDAY, JUNE 4TH, from 2 to 8 p. m., and vote for our candidate, I. B. KUHN, for the Legislature. Give him such a splendid majority that it will forecast his election in November.

Very Respectfully yours

McSherrystown Democrats

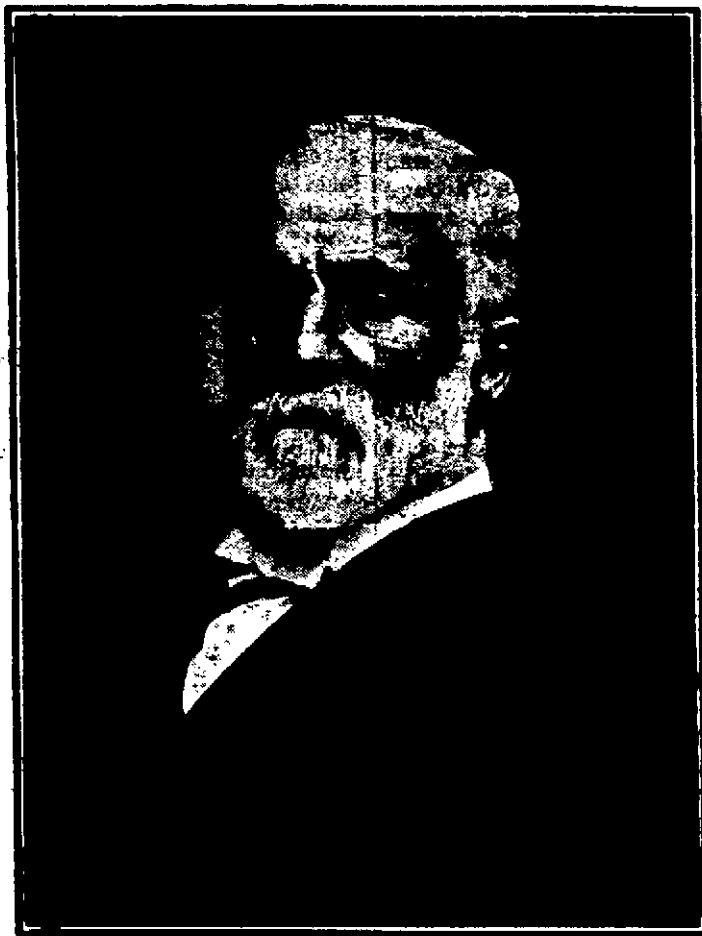

JAMES C. COLE, OF MENALLEN TOWNSHIP

The urging of many Democratic friends throughout the county has resulted in the announcement of the candidacy of JAMES C. COLE of Menallen township for the Democratic nomination for the Legislature. These friends call attention to the enviable record made by Mr. Cole in the last Legislature and that his return to that body would mean increased usefulness of Mr. Cole in that body for his county. The support of the Democratic voters of the county for Mr. Cole is respectfully asked by

MANY DEMOCRATS.

REV. P. W. GROUP.

The Farmer Candidate for the Assembly.

To the Voter: I am the last one to offer as candidate for the Legislature and am desirous to be recognized by you at the Primary to be held, June 4th. The political field is an open one and he who wills may run. In the county of Adams only one will break off the tape at the finish. Let me ask you Mr. Voter: Shall it be Group? Let me ask you to go to the polls on June 4th and in a God-fearing, conscientious, patriotic, land-loving manner, to cast your ballot.

REV. P. W. GROUP, Idaville.

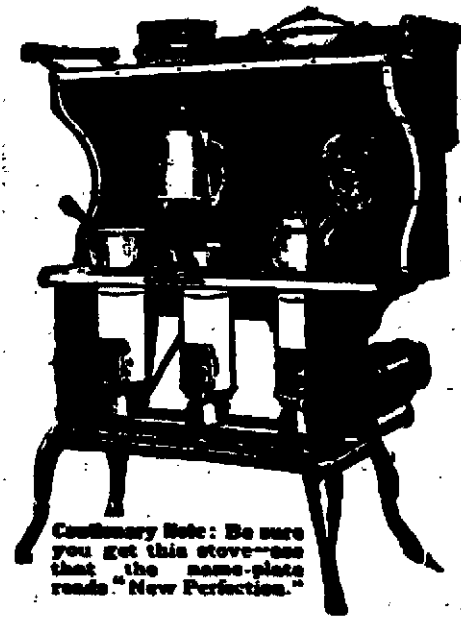

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said:

"I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was small and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give me up for five times its cost."

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Caution Note: Be sure you get this stove—the one with the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

It has a Cabinet Top with a shelf for keeping plates and food hot. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

The Gettysburg Players

You will want to hear the chorus sing "Put on your Old Gray Bonnet" and you will want to see the old grey bonnets, and you want to catch the melody of the discord of "The delectable skule" in "E-Yip-I-Addy-Iay" or see the chorus skip into "I've got rings on my fingers," then there is picturesque chorus "By the Light of the Silvery Moon." The musical program throughout is bright, happy and with the drama and comedy has all been made to delight you. Don't miss the Gettysburg Players Tuesday evening, May 31st, and if you should fail to take them in that evening be sure to take them in the second evening, Wednesday, June 1st. SOME OF THE CURIOUS AND UNUSUAL HAPPENINGS

A Finely Engraved Coin Turned Up in Co. Bank—Oldest Red Man in U. S. Lives in County.

James W. Barnitz, Cashier of Farmers and Merchants Bank of New Oxford, reports the receiving at that institution of a 50 cent silver coin, which owner can recover by calling at bank. The coin had been plained smooth on the one side, but by the use of a glass can be seen very handsomely engraved the following inscription: "Gregory J. Smith Dep. of this Life January 17th, 1838." Two figures of eagles are also engraved on the coin, and the engraver who did the work was indeed a master of the art.

Ex-Burgess H. W. King, of East Berlin has the distinction of being the oldest Red Man, in point of membership, of that order in the United States. He has been a member 53 years, and on the occasion of his 75 birthday anniversary, next August, it is proposed to show proper recognition of the honor.

Daniel Taylor of near Biglerville, has a cat which is caring for a young flying squirrel with her litter of kittens. The mother cat captured the little squirrel from a nest and took it to her kittens and she has been caring for it every since. Any interference is greatly resented and the squirrel apparently enjoys its surroundings.

O. F. Neely of Hanover while tripping a post on his farm near New Chester cut an ugly gash on top of his left foot, cut was 2 1/2 inches long and deep as the bone. This same foot had been stepped upon several years ago by a horse and the toes crushed and last year he stepped upon a nail and foot was penetrated.

Prof. W. W. Barnitz and Thomas Smith, who spent greater part of last summer at Hampton, while Prof. Barnitz was training classes in vocal music and elocution, have sailed for a trip around the world. They expect to be gone about eight months.

Editor Galt of Emmitsburg Chronicle, recently received at his office a newly hatched chicken with two bills and several more eyes than necessary. The denomination of the bills are not mentioned. To a country editor, proverbially poor, such a display of bills must have seemed a bitter irony, and the eyes seem to have a suggestive meaning, that all bills should look double to him.

William Sheaffer son of Charles Sheaffer of Latimore township was sent by his mother with a dinner for father who was at work sawing timber in John Hayburgers' woods. In the evening Mr. Sheaffer coming home discovered that his son had started to take his dinner to him but never reached the saw mill. A searching party found the boy about eleven o'clock lying unconscious in woods on his face. He only remembered walking along path in woods, feeling a sudden pain and knowing nothing more until carried home.

If you fear hot weather and bad bowels, Dr. Fahrney's Teething Syrup is your friend and the baby's comfort.

The Lutheran choir festival on public square of Abbottstown took in proceeds of $60.50, netting them about $40.00.

Geo. W. Miller, of Abbottstown, has been confined to his bed with gall stones.

Scared into Sound Health
Mr. B. F. Kelley, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder, which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foleys Kidney Pills, and after taking them a few weeks the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free of all distress." Peoples Drug Store.

JAMES R. NEELY is adding porch and other improvements to his York Springs property.

MRS. D. F. STARRY of York Springs has a peony stock containing 112 flowers.

HAVE you used Dr. Fahrney's Teething Syrup? It is the whole thing. Babies like it. Cures all stomach troubles.

SAFE AND SURE.

Among the medicines that are recommended and endorsed by physicians and nurses is Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure. For many years it has been regarded by doctors as the medicine most likely to cure coughs, and it has a strong hold on the esteem of all well-informed people. When Kemp's Balsam cannot cure a cough we shall be at a loss to know what will. At druggists' and dealers', 25c.

POSTMASTER G. P. EMMERT of York Springs, has a severely bruised leg from kick of a horse.

Foley's Kidney Remedy may be given to children with admirable results. It does away with bed wetting and is also recommended for use after measles and scarlet fever. Peoples Drug Store.

It is said the Hunterstown Copper Mine has been leased by a foreign company and that work will begin inside of six weeks.

A Woman's Great Idea.

is how to make herself attractive. But, without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood, give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth velvety skin, lovely complexion, good health. Try them. 50c. at Peoples Drug Store.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to this medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Some of the Most Entertaining Topics and Interesting Thoughts and Unusual Things of the Moment to the People of Adams County.

A "FAN" FESTIVAL

ARENDTSTOWN, Pa., May 28th, 1910.—The base ball team of this place will hold a festival here on Saturday evening, June 25th.

Quite a number of our farmers are yet plowing for corn and getting out as large an acreage as possible owing to the high price it has brought during the last four years which makes it a paying crop.

The morning mail which left Arendtstown at 8:25 now leaves at 7:45 owing to the change of the schedule of the trains on the G. & H. R. R. The noon mail leaves at 3:05, same as before the change.

David Thomas of Brysonia lost 24 of his bees out of 31, and David Thomas, Esq., of this place lost 7 out of 12 they think they had been frozen because the majority of the scaps had plenty of honey to keep them alive.

Several days ago when Mrs. Laura Bittinger of Butler township was returning home from this place, she met an automobile and her horse frightened and ran against the bank at the roadside and upset her buggy. She was thrown out on the road, she received several scratches on her face but otherwise escaped injury. The buggy was badly broken, the horse was caught before he got away.

The prospect is for an excellent crop of cherries and strawberries in this section.

The annual meeting of the Gettysburg classes were in session here from the 17th to the 19th both days included. The ministers and their delegates were all present, they held their business sessions morning and noon, and held devotional services in the evening which was well attended.

Mr. F. D. Hesson, wife and niece, Miss Lydia Rebert of Littlestown spent several days last week at the home of Rev. T. C. Hesson and wife in this place.

Ray Minter who has a position in Philadelphia, was home for a few days vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Minter in this town.

Miss Annie Lerew of Harrisburg was a visitor among relatives in this place last week.

Mrs. Hiram C. Lady and her son Clyde are spending a few days at West Chester.

OLD RESIDENT GONE.

EAST BERLIN, May 25.—Another old resident of Reading township has departed. George Seabright died last week near Clear Springs, York county, of catarrh of the stomach, aged 78 years, 9 months and 13 days. He was twice married, first to a Miss Fohl. Five years ago he married the widow of the late Levi Chronister. Mr. Seabright was her third husband. The body was brought by A. B. Trimmer, undertaker of this place, to the home of his son William Seabright where the funeral was held on last Saturday, interment in Lutheran cemetery at Abbottstown, services by Rev. Forst. He leaves besides his wife, four sons, Dr. Calvin of the far West, Charles, of Hanover, John, of York, and William, of Reading township.

Work on Trolley Extension.

John Dohling, of York, has been given contract for the extension of the Hanover and McSherrystown trolley line from McSherrystown to Conowago Chapel and has started work. The route of the extension is as follows: Beginning at a point in the center of North street in the Borough of McSherrystown, County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania, which point is approximately 242 feet West from the center of Church street in said borough (which point is a point of connection with the present line of railway of the Hanover & McSherrystown Street Railway Company already constructed), and extending thence in said borough of McSherrystown in a generally Northwesterly direction over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by this company to a point in the Northern boundary of the borough of McSherrystown which boundary is the dividing line between the borough of McSherrystown and the township of Conowago in the County of Adams aforesaid, and extending thence in a generally Northwesterly and Northwestwardly direction through said township of Conowago in Adams county, Pennsylvania, over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by this company to a point in the center of Conowago Creek, (crossing Plum Creek by a private bridge to be constructed by said street railway company and crossing over the public road leading from McSherrystown-Mt. Rock road to Irish-town); thence crossing said Conowago Creek over and upon a private bridge to be constructed by the said street railway company, said Conowago Creek being the dividing line between the township of Conowago, aforesaid, and the township of Mt. Pleasant, Adams county, Pennsylvania, and extending thence in a generally Northwesterly direction through said township of Mt. Pleasant over and upon private property acquired or to be acquired by said street railway company to a point located approximately 650 feet west of the center of said Conowago creek; and thence returning over the same route thus forming a continuous and complete circuit, which extension or branch is of the approximate length of one and seventy-six one-hundredths miles and is wholly within the County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

NEW OXFORD, May 26th.—Mrs. Daniel Cromer living south of this place met with a painful accident last week whereby she may lose the sight of one of her eyes. She was in the act of driving a nail into the wall and striking the nail a glancing blow, the nail flew back and struck the eyeball so injuring the eye that it was feared she might lose sight of that eye. She has been taken to York where she is under care of a specialist and hopes are entertained that sight may be saved.

Joseph Noel is improving his home by putting down a cement pavement and erecting a new back building.

Allen Goulden is having his house painted.

A son of E. Triber was trying to get a ride on W. A. Diehl's wagon and in some way his foot caught in the wheel in climbing on wagon and his leg was broken at two places.

READY FOR THRESHING.

HAMMERS HALL, May 27.—H. V. Kepner has purchased a threshing rig and added one of the new straw stackers made in Gettysburg.

We notice in many of the wheat fields that about one third of the heads are black.

Frank Pittinger and family of Charmain, visited Mrs. J. B. Myers at this place over Sunday, Mrs. Pittinger is a step-daughter of Mrs. Myers.

John Hankey, near this place, was again taken seriously ill with pneumonia. Drs. Trout and Elderdise are attending him.

Director of Poor Term.

Whether the term of the Director of the Poor expiring this year holds over for another year by reason of the constitutional amendments adopted last year, or whether there will be a vacancy to be filled this fall was decided last week by the York county Courts. They declared that the term of present director will expire at end of this year and that a new director must be elected this fall and they ordered the County Commissioners to print on the Editor Tells of Visit to County.

J. C. Fleming, Editor of the Shippenburg News with his wife spent Golden Eagle week in Gettysburg and writes in his paper of his visit to Adams County and Gettysburg, as follows:

Being accompanied by Mrs. Fleming, we took advantage of the surplus time on Monday and stopped with our former townspeople and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Weirman, who for the present are homing with their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Grist, in close proximity to Guernsey, Adams county. With a double seated survey they met us at the station, and evidently knowing our weakness for a country drive, at once proceeded to make a tour of the neighborhood. That vicinity is the original home of both Mr. and Mrs. Weirman and they are entitled to a just pride in the thrifty locality. Passing farm after farm we were most forcibly struck with the garden like appearance of each. As is well known to many of our readers the soil of Adams county is of a red slaty appearance and well adapted to fruit and vegetable production. Hundreds of acres we observed planted with apple and peach trees while scores of acres were producing cabbage and other vegetables. The season appeared to be at least two weeks in advance of their neighbor county of Cumberland, just over the South Mountain to the north, and we think we are a bit ahead of the usual this spring.

One of our first observations was the estate of C. J. Tyson, known as the Mapleton and Meadow View farms. Here we find agriculture, fruit growing and trucking in its perfection. The homestead buildings on this estate resemble a miniature village with all modern conveniences of a rural district.

But, hastening on, we soon come to the two large farms of the Cyrus S. Grist Sons, containing nearly 300 acres, of which Mr. C. Arthur Grist is the overseer, and we believe understands his business. This is the son-in-law of Mr. Weirman. Their buildings are located on a little knoll, sloping in all directions, and commands a view of almost the entire neighborhood. It is an ideal one. Their new barn, which replaces one destroyed some time ago by fire, is said to be most modern and convenient. A deep well and wind pump supply water for barn and house, the house having all conveniences of a city residence and more, for they are not hemmed in, but have spacious lawns, gardens and a grove of pine and locust surrounding their dwelling. Mrs. Grist has reason to possess that pleasant smile of hers. Possibly it was inherited from her mother, but, nevertheless she has a reason at present for being pleasant and we trust happy for lifetime.

The dinner; well, we do not wish to be understood as going hungry, but no one need go hungry from the Grist home. Two roast chickens and all the accompaniments graced the table at the noon hour, but then we remained for supper (editor like) and received an interlining of country ham (at 32 cts. per pound), fresh asparagus on toast, etc., all to the credit of our hostess.

On one of these farms we were shown a thrifty apple orchard from which 600 barrels of apples were picked last fall and eat from the product, just as fresh as the day they were taken from the tree. A new orchard of 2,500 apple and peach trees was inspected. They are fruit growers and our prospective apple and peach growers would do well to make a visit to our neighboring county of Adams and take a lesson on planting, pruning and caring for an orchard.

Our friend Weirman in the afternoon drove us to Biglerville and other points of interest. We were surprised at the growth of the borough of Biglerville. It is not a village but a town of commendable proportions, having a hotel, up-to-date stores and a National Bank capitalized at 50,000.00. It is here Mr. Weirman will locate in the fall, after coming from Pen Mar, where they will be during the summer keeping a hotel for transient visitors. The home they recently purchased is a modern one and well located in the new portion of Biglerville.

From there we went into Gettysburg and took up our headquarters at Hotel Wabash, of which Mr. B. W. Knudig is the attentive proprietor. Our entertainment was entirely satisfactory and price reasonable. Our former townspeople, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes were called on in their new residence near the National Cemetery. They have a most comfortable home and nicely located. We are indebted to Mr. Hughes for a long drive over the town and to the Cavalry Field 3 1-2 miles east of the town, where for the first time in our many visits to this historic battle field, we viewed the Third Pennsylvania Cavalry Shaft, of which organization the late John C. Wagner was a member.

Mr. J. C. Hoke is proprietor of the Hotel Wabash Livery and conveys tourists to all places of interest on the battlefield, a drive of 22 miles, supplying a competent guide and charging one dollar for the trip.

In the matter of fruit growing in Adams county, for which it has become famous, we might suggest that some of our prospective growers on this side of the mountain visit over there and gain some valuable knowledge along the line of caring for trees as well as gathering the yield. State Zoologist Surface reports that section as among the best in the state and the farmers having a practical knowledge equal to his theoretical plans.
